Welcome to Fundy National Park

This year, as Canada marks the 150th anniversary of Confederation, it is with great pride that we invite you to experience nature and learn more about our history at Fundy National Park.

National parks, national historic sites, and national marine conservation areas represent the very best that Canada has to offer and tell stories of who we are, including the history, cultures and contributions of Indigenous peoples. The Government of Canada is very pleased to offer free discovery passes for all visitors to national parks, national historic sites, and national marine conservation areas operated by Parks Canada in 2017 to celebrate Canada 150.

At Fundy National Park, the celebration starts with the adventures big and small of guests like you! A picnic on Herring Cove Beach with local delicacies from the Village of Alma is one way to celebrate Canada's sesquicentennial; what will you do?

Like any party, this year-long celebration of Canada and our shared values has taken a great deal of planning. We expect an unprecedented number of visitors to pass through our gates this year, and we're preparing in all sorts of ways to ensure that your visit is enjoyable and safe. From enhancing key visitor services to increasing the number of campsites in our campgrounds, we are ready to welcome you to Fundy National Park as a first-time camper or a seasoned pro!

However you plan on celebrating this year, the giant tides, rolling hills, and deep river valleys of Fundy National Park are yours to explore, along with the entire network of national parks, national historic sites and national marine conservation areas across the country.

It is our privilege to celebrate Canada's 150th with you!

Why Salt and Fir?

Writer Maimie Steeves, a former resident of Point Wolfe Village, coined the expression "people of the salt and the fir" to describe her people and their history with the sea and the forest. We borrow it for the name of this guide to honour all things that bind us to the Earth.

Fundy 150 years ago

If you had planned your visit to the park area 150 years ago — when the Dominion of Canada was created — what would you have found?

Since time immemorial the Mi'gmaq and Wolastoqiyik sustained themselves on the resources and land now protected by Fundy National Park. By the mid-19th century Irish, Scottish, and English immigrants had begun to settle the area.

It was called Alma Parish at the time and the park roads you drive today led past many a struggling homestead.

Villages grew at each natural harbour: Goose River, Point Wolfe, Herring Cove, Cannontown, and Alma.

The economy was based on fish and lumber, and for most of the 1800s the area bustled with the business of producing lumber and shipping it to ports on both sides of the Atlantic.

The idea of a confederation of Britain's North American colonies brought dreams that the port of Saint John would handle goods destined inland for the new country by means of a promised railway.

The railroad came no further than Alma. Instead of lumber, the train carried picnickers to a remote countryside.

Today, 150 years later, the area continues to welcome travellers from all over the world. Protected for future generations, we invite you to explore the beaches and forests of Fundy and discover this special place.

Ecological Integrity Monitoring

Ecological Monitoring is like taking the pulse of the ecosystem. Similar to a regular doctor's check-up, we measure a few key things to determine if the environment is doing well, or if there is a particular condition needing more attention.

- 1 Measuring water quality helps us protect the Inner Bay of Fundy Atlantic Salmon.
- 2 Recording when frogs start singing in the spring, helps monitor seasonal change.
- 3 Moose populations are studied to help understand forest health.

Recovering the Inner Bay of Fundy Atlantic salmon

As part of a recovery team called Fundy Salmon Recovery, Parks Canada is restoring a salmon population which would otherwise be extinct.

- 1 At a young age, wild salmon are captured from their home rivers before they go out to the ocean.
- 2 The salmon are grown for about 18 months at the world's first Wild Salmon Marine Conservation Farm operated by Cooke Aquaculture on Grand Manan Island.
- 3 Mature salmon are released back into Fundy National Park rivers.

www.fundysalmonrecovery.com

Building sustainable trails

Trails are an integral part of the Fundy experience as they are the link to connect visitors with the natural world we are protecting. This year we are continuing restoration efforts to make our trails not only a way of being in nature, but a tool for health, wellness, education and ecological integrity.

Help us restore our trails by letting us know if you see any of these invasive plants on your hike! These pesky plants are not from around here and can cause harm to our park!

- 1 Angelica sylvestris – Woodland angelica
- 2 Fallopia japonica – Japanese knotweed
- 3 Frangula alnus – Glossy Buckthorn

Safety First

Your responsibility as a visitor:

We encourage visitors to enjoy all that the great outdoors has to offer. Take the time to learn about possible hazards that could affect your visit and exercise good judgement.

Parks Canada emergencies

In the event of a lost person, forest fire, aggressive animal, excessive noise or disturbances, etc., call 1-877-852-3100.

Leave it for others to enjoy

Take nothing but photos and leave nothing but your footprints.

River crossings

Several trails in the park have river crossings. Water levels are monitored and crossings are closed when water levels are high and conditions are most hazardous. At these times, signs are posted at the trailhead to indicate the closure. More information on river crossings is available at the park's Visitor Centre and kiosks. If you are unsure about water conditions or your ability to cross safely, don't take a chance. Crossing the river can be dangerous.

Fires

Campfires are only permitted in the fireplaces provided. Do not use twigs, leaves, or bark to start your fire. They act as mulch and provide food for plants. Make your own kindling from your firewood which may be purchased at the campground where fires are permitted.

Alcohol

Alcohol is not permitted in public areas (beaches, picnic areas, trails, etc). Alcohol is allowed on registered campsites only, subject to Provincial and National Park Regulations.

Protect your pets

Pets are welcome but must be kept on a leash at all times. You are required to clean up after your pet at all times. Please "stoop and scoop" and dispose of refuse in a sanitary manner.

Note: Pets are not permitted in designated swimming areas (Bennett Lake and swimming pool) and the golf course.

Drones

Flying an unmanned aerial vehicles (UAV) or drone is illegal in a national park without an aircraft access permit.

Tick prevention

New Brunswick is home to a variety of ticks which are most active in areas of long grass or shrubbery. May-June is the period when ticks are most common but the season can be prolonged by cool, damp weather.

Lyme disease is an illness caused by the bite of infected blacklegged ticks, also known as deer ticks. It is possible to be bitten by an infected tick in New Brunswick.

Protect yourself against ticks

Cover up: wear closed-toed shoes, long-sleeved shirts and pants.

Spray: spray feet, ankles and legs with insect repellent.

Self-check: daily self-checks of yourself, your family and your pets can reduce the risk infection. If you find an attached tick, follow the Public Health Agency of Canada's guidelines for prompt removal of the insect.

Animal Watching

Watching animals in their native habitat can be a memorable part of your visit to a national park. For your safety and theirs, never approach wild animals. Practise patience, silence and treat them with respect. Don't forget to appreciate the little things! Fundy is home to small mammals, birds, frogs and even butterflies. Keep a lookout for these spectacular creatures, too.

(from top to bottom)

Moose: lakes and swamps at dawn or dusk, in particular in the area from Bennett Lake west to Wolfe Lake.

Beaver: Bennett, Laverty, and Wolfe lakes, MacLaren Pond, and Caribou Plain.

Deer: roadsides, old fields.

Coyote: roadsides; sometimes heard near Chignecto.

Raccoon: prowling around campgrounds at night looking for campers' food (please don't feed them).

Bullfrog: Bennett Lake, MacLaren Pond, and Caribou Plain.

Loon: Wolfe and Bennett lakes.

Peregrine Falcon: soaring over Alma Beach.

Shorebirds: Mary's Point (27 km east of the Park) late July and August, Upper Salmon River estuary.

Birds of the northern forest: Caribou Plain, East Branch or Foster Brook.

Great Blue Heron: towards the end of summer, Upper Salmon River estuary and along the coast at low tide.

Dragonfly: Bennett Lake, MacLaren Pond, and Caribou Plain.

Keeping the "Wild" in Wildlife

When observing wildlife, respect the following rules:

- Keep your distance.
- Never feed wildlife. Animals that are fed will expect handouts and may become aggressive towards people.
- Keep your camping and picnic sites clean and store food in your vehicle.
- While driving, beware of deer and moose emerging from the forest.
- Be aware that wildlife can be unpredictable.
- Help preserve Fundy's natural beauty. Please leave all plants, animals, rocks, shells, and artifacts where you find them so we can admire them for years to come.
- Wildlife safety information is available at any visitor facility.
